Introduction

This client in the adhesive and industrial chemicals industry, faced significant challenges in their customer onboarding process. It typically took them a lengthy 30 days to appoint a distributor onto their customer appointment portal.

This process involved seven distinct departmental validation stages and the submission and review of over 40+ documents via email. To streamline and optimize this cumbersome process, I implemented a custom User Experience (UX) design on the Salesforce platform.

Problem Statement

Clinet struggled with a time-consuming and inefficient customer onboarding process by the following issues:

Lengthy Processing Time

It took a month to onboard a distributor due to manual document submission and approval stages.

Email-Based Communication

The process relied heavily on email, leading to potential errors, delays, and a lack of transparency.

Complex Validation

7 different departments had to validate documents, making coordination challenging.

Document Overload

Over 40+ documents needed to be submitted, adding complexity and room for errors.

Objectives

Our objectives for client aimed to transform their customer onboarding. We sought to slash the onboarding time from 30 days to minimum days. Shift communication from emails to a centralized platform for efficiency. Implement a structured validation process by department, and simplify document submission with a user-friendly interface. These goals collectively streamlined operations, fostering a quicker, transparent, and more user-centric onboarding experience.
